

Writing Bio

Tiffany Markman, corporate copywriter, editor and reviewer

Tiffany Markman is a corporate copywriter who specialises in writing and editing for company profiles, websites, digital media, marketing material, radio and more.

Established in 2005, Tiffany's company has created content for over 300 clients worldwide – both big and small. (You can view her client list on her website.)

She's also a regular BizCommunity columnist, a contributor to Mail&Guardian, Freelancentral and Women24, and a writer for parenting website and blog JoziKids.

Over the years, Tiffany's delivered keynote addresses and presented training to the International Association of Business Communicators, HeavyChefs, Microsoft, many schools and universities, and a range of local and global companies. Her topics relate to business communication, writing, email, social media, customer service, etc.

Tiffany's also created over 20 writing and content-related training programmes, which she runs for corporate clients. She facilitates an SA Council for Educators (SACE)-approved writing programme at The Ivy League training academy. And there's the option for companies to order bespoke courses, to meet specific requirements.
